Today

4-Million-Share Days.
Our Smooth Earth.
Gandhi Should Try Beef.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

LIGHTS were burning in Wall Street towers until long after midnight, Sunday, not for anxious motorists awaiting a son's return, but for brokers trying to catch up with the market.

All day yesterday many were still at work while you trudged the links trying to select a winning stock for today.

FOUR million share days have become "thick" as autumnal leaves that strow the brooks in Vallombrosa." Therefore the big Stock Exchange has decided to close at 2 instead of 3 p. m. The eleven hundred brokers that hold a priceless monopoly will probably sell no fewer shares. A gambling mania has spread throughout the country and many will suffer that buy foolishly, or beyond their means.

THERE is, unfortunately, no other way of teaching men not to gamble. A child once burned dreads fire. A man, ruined, knows that gambling does not pay.

BEGINNING June 15, you may visit the top of Mont Blanc, without climbing. Airplanes will take you up. Later, a landing field will be established near the top. Still later, you will fly to the top of Mount Everest, or any other high spot on earth.

COMPARED with the earth's diameter, these high spots are not so high. The earth is actually smoother than an apple. Mountains seem high to us, as the roughness on an apple's skin seems "high" to a microbe on the apple.

THE senate votes to keep the Federal inheritance tax on dead men's property. To tax men while they live would seem better than taking money from their wives and children.

EMPLOYEES OF TEXTILE PLANTS TO REJECT CUT

Complete Stoppage of Operations in England Threatened.

SPINNERS VOTE

Efforts to Compromise Differences Result in Failure.

LONDON, May 22.—Possibility of a stoppage of the cotton and woolen textile industries of Great Britain was seen today in Great Britain.

In the case of cotton, Britain's chief export industry, the master spinners and manufacturers are to ballot on the question of announcing a lock-out to enforce a 12½ percent reduction in wages and a longer working week.

Both cotton and wool textile industries are involved in an ultimatum by the Operative Dyers' Trade union threatening a strike on June 2nd unless they are given a wage advance. Negotiations between the master spinners and manufacturers on one hand and the workers on the other have been in progress for some time, but no compromise could be reached regarding a longer working week.

The dyers' ultimatum is addressed to 400 firms in the cotton and woolen industries and directly concerns 80 mills in Yorkshire, Lancashire, Derbyshire and parts of Scotland.

ABANDON HUNT FOR KIDNAPER OF MISSING GIRL

Youngstown Police Believe Rosenbaum Girl Wandered Away.

DRAIN PARK LAKE

Former City Detective Joins Search for 10-year Old Child.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 22.—Still without a plausible clue, police and county authorities, assisted by students and Boy Scouts, today continued their search for Beatrice Rosenbaum, 10-year-old girl who disappeared from her home here May 14.

Practically dropping a kidnapping theory, officers were directing a hunt by zones throughout the city, working on the belief that the girl, who is said to be mentally subnormal, had wandered away by herself, perhaps falling into a stream or some excavation.

Draining of a south side park lake, first move of its kind in the search, was expected to be completed this morning.

David Thomas, former city detective, started to work on the case today, his offer of assistance having been accepted by the Rosenbaum family.

BABY KILLED, PARENTS CUT DURING FIGHT

Father Slashes Tot, Common Law Wife and Self.

DAYTON TRAGEDY

Quarrel Follows Woman's Refusal to Return to Man.

DAYTON, Ohio, May 22.—An eight months' old child of a common law union is dead, and its parents are in a hospital with slashed throats as the result of a domestic quarrel here today.

The girl, according to police, was slashed from ear to ear by her father, Edward Linden, 37, of Avon, O., when Clara Balmert, 35, the child's mother and Linden's common law wife, refused to return to him. Another child, Florence, aged five, was not attacked.

The mother screamed when the baby was slashed, and attracted neighbors. The woman with her two children lived in an apartment in the shadow of police headquarters. Police arrived after the child was attacked, but while they were battering down the door to the woman's apartment, they said, Linden attacked his mate, and then slashed his own throat.

According to neighbors, the pair had not been living together recently, and had quarreled this morning after Linden had visited the woman and asked her to return to him.

Woman's Husband in Prison. According to authorities, Mrs. Balmert's husband is serving a term in the Ohio State penitentiary at Columbus for highway robbery. The man was said to have been sentenced two years ago in Cleveland.

The woman, it is said, became friendly with Linden. While her husband was serving his sentence in the penitentiary.

A guard is being kept over Linden in the hospital, police asserted. If he recovers he will be formally charged with murder, they said.

Linden's weapon, a long knife, which police were unable to locate immediately after the tragedy was found in a suitcase in the kitchen of the woman's apartment.

That Linden's act was premeditated was the conclusion drawn by police after they found a note in the man's coat pocket to his mother at Avon, which read: "If you hear anything bad, please forgive me, I am sending my belongings to you."

Frank Krutich is Miraculously Saved at Mather, Pa.

197 ARE DEAD

Identify 58 of 69 Burned and Mangled Victims.

MATHER, Pa., May 22.—Convinced that no life remains today among the victims of the Mather Colliery explosion still in the mine, rescue crews began the task of locating and removing the bodies of the last of the 197 victims.

One Rescued Man Dies.

One man, Frank Krutich, 55, was found alive in the depths of the mine today — miraculously saved from death when gas fumes and fire swept by his niche in the coal and rock.

Fourteen others escaped shortly after the explosion Saturday, but one was so badly hurt that he died yesterday. Officials feel certain these are the only survivors.

The slow, gruesome task of digging out the bodies buried within the mine has begun. It will take days—maybe a week or more—before they are all recovered.

Sixty-nine bodies had been removed today—fifty-eight identified, and eleven burned and mangled beyond recognition.

Rescue crews, who checked a fire which swept through the mine, Krutich deep in the room, seated on a rail. Gas was seeping into the room, and he would have been overcome soon.

"You no come pretty soon," he greeted them, "somebody choke you." The gas apparently had been sweeping down the entryway, and C. M. Lengel, directing the rescue work, said that he feared the others known to be in the mine already have been overcome.

Krutich walked to the entryway without assistance, was placed on a stretcher and brought to the surface. Here an attendant touched his lips with coffee.

"Give me all that coffee," Krutich shouted. "I no have anything eat for three days."

Krutich and 210 others were entombed about 5 p. m. Saturday. The rescued man was taken to his home near the mine, where physicians took him under their care, and barred the doors.

Fear Others are Dead. News of Krutich's rescue spread like wildfire through the little mining village and hope, which had flickered and died late last night when fire was reported sweeping the workings, was revived as hundreds of men, women and children crowded the hill-sides leading down to the mine tipple. Lengel's statement that he feared

Catholic services came first, with mass by Father Michael Guwyer, of Waynesburg.

Mather, Pa., May 22.—Community funeral services were to be held in this little mining village today for the 60 victims of the Mather colliery explosion whose bodies have been recovered from the blast-wrecked mine.

The services were to be held in the village square, with a chorus of voices, and both Catholic and Protestant ceremonies.

Catholic services were to be held first with a visiting priest in charge, while in the afternoon Rev. C. G. Aldrich, pastor of the Christian church, the only Protestant church in the village, was to preside. Tw villages were sent to visit the homes of the bereaved.

SAN ANTONIO PLANS TWO BIG CONVENTIONS

10,000 Women to Attend Womens Club Conclave.

LEGION MEET ALSO

Spanish Customs Still Prevail Throughout Southwest.

SAN ANTONIO, May 22. — When 10,000 women from all parts of the United States meet in San Antonio May 23 for the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and 40,000 more assemble here on October 8 for the annual national convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, they will find the last stronghold remaining in the United States of old-fashioned devotion to an aristocratic social ritual and elaborate social convention.

In addition to the many things of historic and scenic appeal in this southwestern country, they will find also the old Spanish customs and the influences of two centuries under the rule of Spain. The tradition of the Moorish restraint of women, brought in this way, has had a big influence and still persists as a vital factor in social relations.

Another powerful factor working in the same direction is found in the very large German element which has settled in San Antonio and all Texas. The German woman is, traditionally, very much circumscribed and has for centuries been held pretty much to the old ideal of "Hausfrau" and "Hausmutter."

With these two influences in the direction of conservatism in woman's economic and social relations goes a third perhaps even more powerful. San Antonio and all this part of the country, from the standpoint of its American elements, was settled almost exclusively by people from the old South—from Virginia, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Georgia, where the aristocratic idea of protection, and also restriction, of women reached its full power. These influences, however, it is true, been tremendously modified by modern conditions and ideas, especially the idea of greater freedom for woman, and also by the cosmopolitan population which is to a surprising degree characteristic of San Antonio. But they play a large part in giving the cast to society here.

Only within the past six months or so, for instance, have women ventured to smoke in public in San Antonio. More of the courtesies and formalities are observed in business as well as social life than in the north and east. Women in offices expect, and receive, those old-time courtesies and attentions which have very largely vanished from the business atmosphere of the hurrying north and east. Men still very generally give up their seats in street cars and buses to women and remove their hats when women are in office building elevators.

Old Potteries Of Roman Epoch Found in Madrid

MADRID.—Madrid, long-considered the most modern city of old Spain which really only became important when Phillip II made it the capital in the 16th Century, was once the home of the Romans.

Recent discoveries by a professor of the College Pilar have brought to light old potteries of the Roman epoch. Along the banks of the old Manzanares, he came upon the ruins of a Roman villa of the second century, decorated with fine paintings and mosaics.

A water reservoir, twenty-three feet long and eight feet wide, together with a few marble columns seem to prove that it was a residence of great value.

CHIEF'S ORDER

City Given "Black Eye" by Gossip, Hughes Says.

CHICAGO. — "Gambling must go. Gangsters and gunmen must leave Chicago. Disorder must and will cease. District police commanders will be held strictly responsible for conditions in their territory and if crime is not reduced they, too, will go."

This was the edict uttered by Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes of Chicago upon his return from a vacation trip.

"I am going to call a meeting of all deputy commissioners and at that meeting I am going to repeat, for the last time, that professional gambling must go," Hughes said.

Picked Up On Sight.
"The same goes for gangsters and gunmen. They are to be picked up on sight, held for investigation, and convinced that Chicago is no place for them. I don't care where they go as long as they get out of this city."

Hughes said the crime situation in Chicago is better, per thousand of population, than in a majority of other cities. He again cited that Chicago has been given a "black eye" by gossip in other cities.

"Our statistics are on file with the Chicago Crime Commission and they are available, too. Stories that we suppress actual crime conditions in the police reports are untrue. We do hold back, pending investigation, some reports of robberies that look fictitious."

"Faked" Robberies.
"Many of these robberies turn out false by confession of the complaining witness who 'faked' the theft to account for money they had used for wrong purposes."

"But there is no excuse for slot machines and other devices of that nature."

"The same applies to vice and open booze joints."

"They are going—all of them. 'Chicago will be one of the cleanest places in the world when I am through with it.'"

In a recent month 8,000 tons of olive oil were shipped from Malaga, Spain.

Boost Playgrounds

With the suspension of school activities next Friday, thus ushering in the three-month vacation period for more than 5,000 children, plans are expected to be announced for the formal opening of the municipal playground, long sponsored by the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

The extent of the movement in East Liverpool this summer will depend, of course, upon the financial support given. It is a foregone conclusion that the downtown play center at Second and Washington streets will open for at least two months, while, if possible, it is expected that efforts will be made to provide recreation lots for children in outlying sections.

If the custom of past years is followed, a Tag Day probably will be designated, when club women and school girls and boys will sell tags at the purchaser's own price as a means of acquiring new equipment and paying the salaries of supervisors. This campaign probably will be held early in June.

No one denies the importance of the playground movement, not only in providing wholesome exercise for Young America but also as a factor in reducing the appalling toll in traffic accidents, many of which are attributed to the use of the streets as play centers. Federal reports show that approximately 25,000 persons are killed annually by automobiles, and probably one-third of the victims are children.

Boost the playground movement in East Liverpool.

Lauds Secondary School

In two speeches last week President Coolidge voiced the importance of education and emphasized the practical side of art in America.

Wearing a cap and gown, and with his wife near him in the same garb, the nation's chieftain Saturday at the sesquicentennial celebration at Phillips academy, Andover, Mass., declared the secondary school one of the greatest factors in moulding the habits and thoughts of America's future generations and urged more attention to the elevation of the standards of such institutions.

Earlier in the week he stressed the necessity for a more thorough translating of art into the work-a-day existence of the people.

Can it be possible that because of the desire of the people of the United States to accumulate wealth they have completely forsaken the artistic side of life for the more practical? It would seem so, judging by what President Coolidge said.

It is true that many men and women have not the time to devote to the more beautiful things in life. Yet philanthropists have brought to the day laborer the beauties of nature, the loveliness of paintings by the masters, which not so long ago were denied him and were intended only for the rich.

Inasmuch as this is true, then there is not the excuse of cost in cultivating more of an artistic spirit. Libraries, museums, art galleries and the like, which are to be found in every city, every town and at many of the cross-roads, all house thousands of objects of an artistic nature, a close study of which would almost instantly raise the standard of the average man and woman, so far as art itself is concerned.

President Coolidge's declaration that the country has reached the point where there is no longer a visionary desire for art, but an actual reality, seems to indicate that the people after all are taking advantage of the offerings which philanthropy and taxes have provided.

Restoring Moundbuilders

Word that it has recently been possible to re-create and restore for posterity one of the Moundbuilders of Ohio, and that the figure now is permanently housed in the archaeological and historical museum of the state, is of more than passing interest to East Liverpool.

The Moundbuilders, at one time made their homes not so far from this part of the state, and for this reason East Liverpool men and women interested in the preservation of early-day history in the state, will learn with pleasure that the museum now is the home of one of these tribesmen who once lived in Ohio.

True, this is not a flesh and blood being, but in lieu of such a possibility, it is said the figure has been so faithfully restored that the resemblance is perfect and the illusion beyond compare. The figure was made after the bones of one of the Moundbuilders had been assembled, and after Ralph Allen, a Pawnee Indian, has posed for the facial features.

The Indians came after the Moundbuilders, who were the original aborigines. The figure just completed is accoutered in loincloth and surrounded by trinkets and the like faithfully restored from Moundbuilder caves recently explored. It is a noteworthy addition to the state archaeological story and will help preserve the pre-civilization of Ohio.

World Air Language

The international nature of the aviation activities which centered on that little Labrador island has already been commented on. Flyers of half a dozen or more nationalities went to each other's aid and worked together to get the Bremen crew to their original goal, Maj. Fitzmaurice commented genially on his own efforts to keep up with the international developments.

"When I started on this trip," he said, "I went as a flyer. Before we took off I had to learn German so I could speak with Capt. Koehl. And in order to get to New York I had to speak French."

The French was necessitated by business trips to Quebec and other French-Canadian communities. His German companions no doubt have picked up a good deal of English and some French.

Esperanto may yet become an essential part of an aviator's training and of education in general. Nowadays no community, however remote from the centers of population, can be sure that it won't play host to a lot of flyers from various countries.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—Can the automobile be improved mechanically to twice its present efficiency, or be reduced to half its present cost? Car owners who have observed that the present day cars are more or less standardized probably doubt it. Automotive engineers who expect to witness the first 1928 tests of new ideas in the May 30th Speedway race at Indianapolis say it is quite possible. Admitting that we now have good cars in all price classes, and that all automobiles now selling have similar basic engineering, the designers and builders of cars are not sure that a wholly different kind of car will not be made in a few years.

The front-wheel drive is the most radical change which is being discussed generally, and which will get a fairly thorough try-out at Indianapolis. Probably three or more front-wheel driven cars will start in the 500-mile speed classic. If one of them wins, or if several of them finish the race in good order, engineers will study closely to see how much expense can be saved, and how much efficiency gained, by applying the power in front instead of behind.

The automobile and the steamship are the principal modern machines driven from behind. The airplane originally was a pusher machine. Now the propeller is almost always in front, a tractor system. The locomotive gets its power to the wheels by a much more direct method than the automobile. The electric locomotive applies the power almost directly to the wheel. It is necessary for the automobile to transmit its power from piston to crankshaft, through two universal joints and several shift gears, and turn it at right angles through differential gears, before applying it to the point of traction. Possibly not, and possibly a plan will some day develop for direct application of the power. In such a case it is easily possible that one-half the power will produce the present speed.

Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman of the A. A. A. Contest Board, which supervises the auto racing game in America, sums up the situation as follows:

"The speedway is the laboratory and testing ground for automotive progress. True, it ranks with the sport of kings and annually provides thrills for a thrill-seeking nation, but behind the brief spurt of the race are months of study, tests, and training. Yes, anxiety, too, as some daring driver stakes his life on some new experiment of engineering genius."

The speedway race as a testing ground has made even greater progress since sheer speed ceased to be the first requirement of the entries. The fact that the speedways themselves, like the great 2 1/2 mile brick bowl at Indianapolis, were usually designed for maximum speeds of from 75 to 100 miles an hour, has forced restrictions on the design of the racers which have called for the greatest engineering ingenuity. It is possible today to build motors capable of driving a car as fast as 200 miles an hour. Such machines could never complete one circuit of a speedway and stay on the track. Hence the rules have been steadily altered, chiefly by reducing the piston displacement allowed.

The first Indianapolis race, for example, was won by a car with 447-inch piston displacement, a 4 1/2 cylinder bore, and 5-inch stroke. That was in 1911. Even larger engines followed for a year or two. Then limitation began, and now the annual classic is run by cars with less than 125-inch displacement, less than 2 1/2 inch bore, and less than 3 1/2 inch stroke.

With smaller cylinders, better timing was required, the super-charger was developed to get the fuel into the cylinder under pressure, better tires were needed to save the time of changes and danger of wrecks, and weights were placed lower to hold the car on the track. Many other developments have come along. The four-wheel brakes had a thorough test in racing before they went into a stock car. Eight cylinders in line was a racing development. May be some designer will find a need or use for ten or twelve.

Cooling, gearing, transmission, oiling, all have been improved under track tests. Today, with no general deviations from the general engineering practice in use except such as the air-cooled engine, the sleeve valve, the worm drive, and the refinements of special features on the higher priced cars, the automotive engineers are not sure but that the race of May 30 may show them all something entirely new.

Q. How many letters are sent by airplane? H. E. J. A. The Post Office Department has no actual count of letters dispatched by plane. Basing a computation upon the number of pounds carried and the average number of letters to a pound, about 7,000,000 were sent by air in March, 1927.

Q. How much money has the American Red Cross spent since the close of the World war in the relief of its soldiers? S. R. A. In the nine years since the Armistice, the Red Cross has spent $62,388,978 in relief work among disabled and sick World war veterans and their families.

Q. When will the commemorative fifty-cent piece pertaining to the Territory of Hawaii be issued? C. F. D. A. They will be issued some time in July. They will be sold in Hawaii and may be secured from the Cook Sesquicentennial Association, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Q. For whom was Lewisburg, West Virginia, named? K. B. W. A. It was named for General Andrew Lewis. The city was erected on the site of Old Savannah Fort, where General Lewis made a rendezvous in 1774 prior to the battle of Point Pleasant.

Q. Why do goldfish sometimes come to the surface of the water? L. G. A. They come to the surface for air, and their doing so indicates the lack of oxygen in the water. Often this happens when there are too many goldfish in the bowl.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Broadway seems to me to be mellowed when lights come on. Dusk brings a softening influence. Broadway is an "after dark" street with everybody looking forward to anticipatory joys of the night. The attitude is expectant, like hunters awaiting the horn.

From the side street rooming houses and shady hotels at nightfall come the doubtful and provocative maidens, glamorously bright with cosmetic artifices. The cheaper cafes fill with early dinner chorus girls and late breakfast sure thing boys. The stiff manner vanishes. The stiff manner vanishes.

Everybody chatters. To the stranger the patter seems strange—a medley of halfworld phrases turned out weekly by the White Way slang makers. It is a distinct patois, and when understood as illuminative as any coined. Nobody seems to know exactly from whence it came.

At this period when Broadway is pluming for the night the army of musicians in Tuxedos descends on the street for dinner before going to movie houses, restaurants and theatres. Too, there are the out-of-town experimentalists in quest of thrills.

The gambling house runners look for suckers as well as the cicerones of the dives. Broadway has a tempo different from that of any other time of day. It seems like a small town drifting home to dinner to step and gossip in the postoffice and drug store.

As a matter of fact it is the hour when the real Broadway relaxes and are themselves. The rest of the town is preparing for the play and other pleasures. The gleaners, the waiters, the wise guys and smart crackers can slip off their masks and be themselves.

Later on the street stiffens and bristles with sophistication. Sin shows its silk. And Broadway begins to stalk for its prey just as it did in the old ten-twenty and thirty years ago.

It strikes me no one in the world looks so sheepish and self-conscious as a chef in uniform passing through a dining room.

Paducah's newest and best hotel, to open shortly, is named for its fa-

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Anemia, kidney disturbances, diabetes and a general run down condition are rarely uncomplicated ailments. What we call "secondary diseases" may result. One such thing is known as boils.

These disagreeable visitors may come in "crops," or they may come singly. But no matter how they come they are equally painful. They may attack any part of the body. As a rule, however, they are found most commonly on the neck, face, arms, but, looms and legs. One of the most painful of the small boils is in the ear or the nose. Germs are such common things and so readily find entrance to the body that you will not be surprised when I tell you that a germ is the cause of boils. Usually persons with lowered vitality and poor general health are the ones most susceptible to boils. This is because their resistance is lowered and there is no vitality to fight and destroy the watchful germs.

The difference between a boil and the ordinary abscess or infection, is that the boil always has a "core" or hard center. That is characteristic of the typical boil.

Suppose you have a boil—what do you do about it? Many persons make the grave mistake of squeezing the boil all the time. This is the wrong thing to do. Every time you squeeze a boil you break down the surrounding tissues, allowing the infection to spread.

I do not mean that boils should not be opened to allow the pus to come out. I do mean, however, that continued opening and squeezing is harmful.

It is always wise to consult your doctor if you have a boil. He may be able to prevent your having several boils.

There are vaccines for many forms of disease. One that has done good is the autogenous vaccine made from the pus of the infection.

If you are a victim of boils there is much you can do for yourself. Make sure you are not constipated—keep the bowels open. Avoid excessive use of fats, rich pies and pastries and condiments. Drink plenty of water and lemonade.

If more than one boil occurs or, for that matter, if you have a single one, you must make sure there is no underlying condition. Have the urine examined to make sure you have no kidney complications.

In short, take an inventory of your health. Wherever you find something missing which good health requires, set about correcting the defect. That is good advice always and it is particularly true of this simple ailment.

Some time I will say more about boils, but in the compass of this short article are a number of suggestions which I hope may prove helpful. The skin is a sort of mirror of the vital organs. If it is not clean and clear, something is wrong somewhere. Do not disregard these outward and visible signs of an internal disturbance.

Other Editors Say

A Poor Beginning.

No one could say that the University of Wisconsin is lacking in the elements of progress. But something has happened there to demonstrate to the nation that spilling bees, or any other agency that improves the common knowledge of students, are excellent things.

The College of Engineering at the Wisconsin capital has been amazed by some of the answers returned by engineering students to examinations of the most fundamental sort. A check revealed that the one junior in engineering "gubernatorial" meant pertaining to the power of eating, that another believed "pseudo" was a Mexican coin, that "feline" referred to a worm, that "poient" was drinkable, that "agrarian" meant grass eating, and that distillation was correspondingly neglected among engineers.

Tests of vocabulary revealed other amazing results. "Cellibacy," meant happy people, "sextant" is a person in a church who rings the bells, "albino" is an animal similar to a mule, "pedantic" is traveling on foot, "phonetic" is bordering on the insane, "epithet" is a missile, "Fuerlie" is pertaining to dogs.

As a result of this detection a special course in English will be established for seniors as well as juniors to guard against a future revelation of such glaring ignorance of the meaning and construction of words.

Do you find that reference to certain subjects disturbs you a lot? Why, you cannot say, but whenever that certain subject comes up you can feel a flush coming over your face.

There is nothing in your life which should make you feel guilty of certain offenses, which are charged to others, but nevertheless, you feel uneasy when they are talked about.

You wonder if people think you guilty of the offenses attributed to these certain other persons.

The more you think of it, the greater your embarrassment, and the result is that your peace of mind is gone and you show it.

If you have never been guilty of these things, charges made against others, why does the mention of them affect you when you should pay no attention to it?

Possibly in your past life you contemplated doing many things that might have landed you in jail.

You're Sure of Quality In McDole Workmanship

Broadway Firm Guarantees Superior Results in Wall Papering, Decorating and Exterior Painting.

Spring is definitely the season and the reason for brightening and refurbishing the home—a touch of color here, a little more life there—trimming up the house in which we live so that it may look its best. New wall paper of cheerful spring colors and artistic modern designs, on the inside—and a fresh coat of paint, on the outside, to do for your home what a new spring suit does for you. You are painting, wall papering, doing over those floors, redecorating—something of this nature, surely—and if you are doing it with Earl R. McDole materials or having it performed through the medium of McDole workmanship, you are adding value to your property and satisfaction to your own sense of pride in work well done.

When McDole's brighten the surface they brighten the whole home—put it in tune with the new season.

McDole materials, McDole methods and McDole workmanship are three good bets.

Every man in the McDole employ is a seasoned journeyman painter and decorator—not a mere brush hand. McDole service gives the customer fast, steady, skillful work. This firm gets things done and does them right. That's why they are able to keep their charges moderate.

Once McDole is in your employ—to paint your home, to hang new paper, to redecorate—they get on the job without delay. There's no undue waiting for several days or a week or so after their estimate is accepted. They are on the work as soon as possible and stay with it until it is finished.

It is the McDole theory that the average householder places greater importance on having his decorating or painting or whatever it is done quickly and expeditiously. Given the choice between two painting concerns, one of which lets the job drag out, and the other finishes it quickly after it is started, he is likely to choose the latter, even if there is a few dollars difference in the price. It is worth something to have the work done quickly and done right.

All of these things go into McDole service, painting, papering or whatever it may be.

It is time for papering, too. It's wonderful what a new sense of personality that tasteful and artistic wall paper can give to a room. And never have McDole's shown such a lovely array of fashionable new designs as those they are now displaying. You'll be surprised at the charming effects you can achieve at a very small cost in selecting from our new spring assortments.

Fashionable wall paper and artistically designed paper can do wonders in creating a charming interior with a sense of individuality at a surprising moderate cost. McDole's assortment of wall paper, complete in every respect, reveals in a very striking manner the new tendencies in color and designs that characterize the new spring offerings. Included are papers for every room in the home with borders to match.

There are fashions, you know, in wall paper just as there are in apparel and other things and the smart housewife of today sees to it that the decorations of her home are just as tasteful and up to the minute as are her own frocks.

And for interior decorating, McDole's use Pratt & Lambert products in keeping with every effort to put nothing but quality into every job they do.

Whether it's a matter of civic pride with you or just the personal pleasure of living in surroundings that are spic and span, you'll find at McDole's everything that you'll need to do a first-class job of painting or decorating, from sandpaper to wallpaper and at moderate prices.

McDole's shop is located in Broadway, next to the fire station. They are ready at all times to advise you on papering or painting projects and will cheerfully furnish estimates on any job of the kind.

CANTON INTERESTS MAY ERECT BUICK PLANT NEAR LISBON

Option is Taken on 238-acre Tract of Clay Lands in Center Township.

LISBON, May 22.—Canton interests have taken an option on a tract of 238 acres of land in Center township, just outside the corporate limits of Lisbon for brick manufacturing purposes. Clay has been taken from different parts of the land and tested, and analysis, it is said, meet the requirements of the intended purchasers.

Both face brick and paving block will be produced, it has been represented, and the company will employ between 75 and 100 men.

Whether the new plant will be of the tunnel kiln type has not been announced. Railroad connections are available with the Erie, Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western, the latter connecting with the Pennsylvania system, and the Youngstown & Ohio River railroad which taps connecting lines at Washingtonville.

It may follow that the Canton interests will select a site for this new plant near the present location of the Wright Manufacturing company, although other parts of the property are available for building purposes.

The property now under option is that recently purchased following partition proceedings in common pleas court by George H. Huston of Lisbon, three tracts being involved in this sale. The deed for the several tracts was recorded May 3rd.

SUES TO COLLECT FIRE INSURANCE

LISBON, May 22.—Three suits have been filed by W. G. Keister of R. F. D. No. 2, Homeworth, against the National Union Fire Insurance company of Pittsburgh, Pa., claiming $750 due on unpaid insurance policies, upon which losses have been sustained as a result of a fire.

The plaintiff had his automobile insured against fire and theft with the defendant company for $200 and a truck for $250, while a tractor was insured against fire for $300. All three motors were destroyed by fire Aug. 22nd last, and no loss it is alleged has been paid as covered by the three policies.

Licensed To Wed.

LISBON, May 22.—A marriage license has been issued to Louis E. Lore, a machinist residing at Salem, and Miss Frances L. Ambler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ambler, also of Salem. They are to be married by the Rev. Gordon at Salem.

Odd Glimpse of Hoover

TAKING a peep into the old family album of the Hoover family, there would be found many cozy family groups; the customary old-fashioned "tintypes," and live, interesting pictures of family members and friends at work and at play. The most that the old ones would bring forth would perhaps be the silly giggle of a very modern flapper and great astonishment at the tremendous amount of clothing worn by the women.

Here is shown one picked at random. After a casual glance and perhaps a tolerant smile at the "old fashioned" group, let's find who they are.

At the left is Theodore J. (Tad) Hoover at the age of 20; Herbert C. Hoover at the age of 16, and, seated, Mary Hoover at the age of 14 when the family lived at Salem, Oregon.

Theodore is now head of the Engineering Department of Stanford University, California, and Herbert, present Secretary of Commerce, is candidate for President.

PAIR WHO FAIL TO ESCAPE MAKE DEATH THREATS

Separate Automobiles Used to Take Men to Penitentiary.

LONG SENTENCES

Sheriff Frustrates Attempt to Dig Way Out of Jail.

BUYRUS, O., May 22.—Sentenced to 15 to 25 years each in the Ohio state penitentiary, Alvin Worley, 35, of New Philadelphia, and John Longate, 36, alleged escaped convict from the state penitentiary and also of New Philadelphia, were to be taken to the penitentiary at Columbus today in separate automobiles following death threats that they hurled at each other when they were sentenced yesterday.

The two men, it was brought out in their jury trial, tried to effect their escape from the county jail here yesterday. A hole had been partially tunneled through the wall of the jail. It was discovered when Sheriff Elmer was taking Worley to the court room. Worley accused Longate of being the leader in the attempted jail delivery and Longate accused Worley of the same thing.

Authorities found two razors, a heavy sash weight from one of the prison windows, a coil of heavy wire and a sharp piece of steel in the bath room adjoining the men's cell.

The attempted jail break, it was said, was responsible for the heavy sentences imposed upon the men. Longate admitted at the trial that he had served a term in the Ohio penitentiary for robbery.

Worley and Longate are alleged to have held up and robbed a restaurant at Crestline and then kidnapped a taxi driver, slugging him, and using his cab to make their escape. They were captured a short time after the robbery, however.

WILLIS FORCES SPENT $41,216

Former Senator Pomerene Expended But $100.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Ohio's presidential campaign came under the senate's presidential funds committee's spotlight today.

Carmi Thompson, manager of the late Senator Willis' campaign against Secretary of Commerce Hoover, testified $41,216 was expended on behalf of Willis.

Ex-Senator Atlee Pomerene, Ohio's favorite son candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, declared he spent but $100, which was used in Cleveland where a contest developed over one of his delegates.

HOOVER CALLS MEET OF BACKERS

More than 125 members of the house, with a sprinkling of senators are expected to attend.

Abandon Mine Hope

The 134 others were dead failed to dim their optimism.

Children ran screaming down the roads, and from every miner's hut poured hurrying figures.

Bruce Deal, the first of the rescue crew to reach Krubick, said the miner leaped to his feet and threw his arms around Deal.

Despite his threats to "choke somebody," the miner, who is about 55 and unmarried, was in good spirits. Once he was above ground, Krubick joked with his rescuers.

Krubick said that a companion, with whom he had been trapped in the room, wandered away and disappeared down the entryway. Rescue teams said the man probably was overcome by gas.

Fire which gained headway last night, was brought under control in the mine today, and the danger of a second explosion passed. Crews pressed forward in the hope that others may have found pockets of air sufficient to sustain them since Saturday.

THE two kinds of religions and men hate the British, in an unreasoning sort of way, in spite of the fact that Britain gives India what little peace and civilization she possesses.

BUT Hindus and Mohammedans hate each other ten thousand times more than they hate Britain. Religious hate is the vilest and most violent. That is Britain's predicament in Asia.

IF Gandhi would teach the feeble Hindus to eat meat and build up red blood, instead of letting thousands of miserable cows die of starvation, he really would worry Britain. A vegetarian race is nothing to fear.

K. OF C. ENDS MARION MEET

E. J. Fitzgerald and Grattan Dugan Honored.

MARION, O., May 22.—With election of officers completed and the choosing of Toledo as the site for the 1929 convention, the annual state convention of Ohio council, Knights of Columbus, stood adjourned today. # FARM MEASURE VETO HINTED

McNary-Haugen Bill on Desk of President.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—President Coolidge has not yet taken any action on the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, which has been on his desk since last week, but he again intimated to callers today that he will veto it.

Concerning reports that he might veto it with an amendment to congress that he would sign it with the equalization fee eliminated brought only the response today that the president would be willing to sign any bill not out of line with his previous recommendations to congress.

GERMAN CITY IS CALM AFTER GAS SCOURGE

Phosgene Blast Sends 250 Persons to Hospitals.

11 ARE KILLED

Hamburg Gets Taste of Possible Future Warfare.

HAMBURG, Germany, May 22.—Comparative tranquility had settled down over Hamburg today after the involuntary poison gas attack which gave taste of possible future warfare when fleets of military planes may spread deadly gas waves over enemy cities.

There are 250 persons in hospitals in addition to the 11 who were killed by the explosion of a phosgene gas tank. The death list may eventually reach nearly a score as some of the victims are in perilous condition.

The gas scourge, which drove thousands from their homes, spread from the Stollenberg Chemical works on the outskirts of the suburb of Veddel until dissipated by ammonia sprays and a rain storm. If it had taken place in the city proper it might have caused hundreds of deaths.

SIX DWELLINGS ARE UNROOFED

Shadyside Avenues Residents Hard Hit by Saturday's Storm.

Several houses in Shadyside avenue were unroofed by the force of the wind which accompanied the rain and hail storm which swept this section Saturday evening. It developed today.

Dwellings, occupied by Carl Higin, George Schepp, George Wright, William Moore, Charles Waggoner and James Miles were stripped of their roofs, the rain causing damage to the furnishings in several of the houses.

F. C. Moore lost 125 young chickens when his coop was wrecked by the force of the wind. His loss is estimated at $200. A young orchard, owned by Louis Fisher, was almost completely destroyed. Sixteen windows in the John Creamer home were demolished by hail.

Gardens in the district completely destroyed.

The East Liverpool-Wellsville highway which was closed by reason of earth and debris, washed down from the hillside, will not be opened before tomorrow. A county owned steam shovel and a force of trucks are engaged in clearing the road. Traffic to Wellsville is being detoured over the Camp ground road.

The Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company are operating over but one track near the scene of the slip at Brady's cut where a section of the road was carried away Saturday night.

ONE MAN HURT IN OHIO FIRE

Blaze Sweeps Wooster Factory; Damage Hits $50,000.

WOOSTER, O., May 22.—One man seriously injured but expected to recover and damage estimated at $50,000 was the toll today in a spectacular fire last night that gutted the foundry of the Monitor Sash Iron company and the Big Prairie Mill at Big Prairie, near here. Fire companies responded from Wooster and Loudonville and aided in bringing the blaze under control.

For a time it was feared the flames would sweep the entire town.

The injured man, Royal Kerr, of Big Prairie, is in the hospital here undergoing treatment for burns sustained when he came in contact with an electric power wire while aiding in fighting the fire.

Starting in the iron company foundry, the blaze gained rapid headway, sweeping to the hotel nearby. Both structures were completely destroyed. The exchange of the Ohio Central Telephone company, which was in the hotel building, was destroyed, isolating the town from telephone communication.

Woman, Ill, Takes Poison.

MARION, O., May 22.—That Miss Meta Anna Baum, 53, of Louisville, Ky., ended her life by poisoning on a train that was bringing her to a sanitarium here, was the verdict of Coroner Osborn today. The body of Miss Baum was discovered by her friend, Mrs. J. H. Ries, who was accompanying her.

LINER RESTS ON RIVER BOTTOM

NEW YORK, May 22.—The Holland-American liner Veddam, one of the half score of ships which figured in Saturday's collisions around New York, was resting on an even keel on the bottom of the Hudson today, off her pier at the foot of Fifth street, Hoboken.

The vessel sank when the 15 feet of water in her hold swelled the cargo of grain and further opened the smashed plates in her side.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 22.—All sections of the market were swept downward at the beginning of trading today by a violent wave of selling which started with the airplane stocks and extended through to the motors, oils, steels and specialties. Failure of the list to "hold" in yesterday's selling movement stimulated profit-taking and short selling on the floor of the exchange and the leaders dropped abruptly.

Wright Aero and Curtiss were again the leaders in a sharp decline of prices in this period. Wright losing nearly 20 points at 168 and Curtiss down 8 at 120. Since their sensational sky-rocketing two weeks ago these stocks have declined nearly 70 points each.

Professionals concentrated heavy selling pressure on General Motors and succeeded in driving that stock down six points to 185. This is the sharpest downward movement recorded for this market leader since it reached its peak at 210 a few weeks ago, and weakness in General Motors was a great disappointment to the bulls. Radio was struck for six points at 173. United States Steel lost nearly two points and new declines of one to three points were recorded in other active shares, including the investment rails. Stock of the Interboro railway, the new city traction line, lost six points as the result of the supreme court's decision holding up the seven-cent fare until the whole case has been reviewed in October.

Call money rates held at 6 per cent, with offerings in good volume. Cotton was slightly irregular and grain prices fractionally lower. Trading in the commodity markets was light with prices practically unchanged.

STOCKS FALL AS WALL ST. 'BEARS SCORE'

Wright Aero Drops 16 Points; Curtiss Also Tumbles.

STEEL EASIER

Radio Corporation and General Motors Skid.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The "bears" in Wall Street, long on the defensive, had an inning today and sharp declines were recorded in some stocks that had been skyrocketing of late.

Wright Aero dropped 16 points to 170. This is a 71-point drop from the high point it had reached last week, 241. Curtiss Aero also fell off 8 points to 129 this morning. A week ago Curtiss sold as high as 193. The declines in these two stocks were largely due to profit taking.

Radio Corporation of America slipped down 6 1/2 to 173 and General Motors fell 5 3/4 to 185 1/4. Greene Cananea Copper was down 3 1/2 to 118. Studebaker off 2 1/2 to 74 1/4 and Westinghouse down 2 1/2 to 109.

The declines were general, although some of them were slight. Even U. S. Steel was easier, selling at 132 1/2, a decline of 1 1/2 from last night's close.

Some Wall Street traders regarded the drop in the market as evidence that the confidence of the public that prices could remain at their recent high level had been shaken. Orders to sell were numerous.

MAIL PILOT DIES IN CRASH

World War Flyer Killed at Richmond, Va.

RICHMOND, Va., May 22.—Pat Morrissey, air mail pilot operating between here and New York, was killed early today when his plane went into a nose dive and crashed near the city airport. He had just taken off for New York and was believed to have lost his bearings in a fog.

He was buried under the wreckage, and the body was mangled.

The Pitcairn aviation company of Philadelphia operates the mail service.

Morrissey was a World War flyer and later instructor at Kelley field, Texas. He was about 33 years of age and lived at Aurora, Ill. He survived by his wife and three children at Aurora.

Served in Army in Service.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Edward J. Morrissey, killed in a mail plane crash at Richmond, served in the army air service during the war and was known as one of the best mail pilots in the service, the postoffice department declared today. The department gave his home as Philadelphia.

Morrissey had just taken over the mail plane which left Atlanta at 7 o'clock last night. The mail was recovered from the wreck and sent north by train.

Reports said Morrissey's engine apparently went bad. He was returning to Richmond to get his bearings because of fog.

TAX SLASH GOES TO CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The new tax reduction bill, which the senate held within the treasury limit of $204,000,000 after the house authorized a $289,000,000 slash, was sent to conference today while administration leaders revived hopes of adjourning congress next Saturday night.

The Boulder Dam bill, likely to pass the house in a day or two, but facing a desperate filibuster in the senate, and a final settlement of the tax differences between the two branches, alone stood between congress and adjournment at the end of the week. Falling to get congress homeward bound by May 26, administration leaders will set May 29 as the date for ending the present session.

CONDUCT PROBE OF FATAL BLAST

HAMBURG, May 22.—More than a hundred persons were in various hospitals here today while officials investigated the gas catastrophe yesterday which took a toll of eleven lives.

A leak in a tank containing phosgene, the deadly poisonous gas used in the war, freed an enormous quantity of the substance. The gas filtered from the tank and hung like a pall over the harbor section of this city. Residents were panic-stricken. Many were overcome and fell in the streets.

Firemen were at a loss as to how to combat the deadly fumes. The ordinary gas-masks used by the fire-fighters were found to be no protection against phosgene. War-time gas masks were sent for from Berlin.

TOLEDO, O., May 22.—Abe Shapiro, Toledo youth, was today to begin serving an indeterminate term in the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield, to which he was sentenced yesterday by Judge Fred Hay, of Defiance. The sentence was the result of the death of 13-year-old Bernard Schmidt who was killed by an automobile alleged to have been driven by Shapiro on March 10 last. Shapiro had been indicted for manslaughter but had pleaded not guilty. Yesterday, however, he admitted his guilt.

In pronouncing sentence, the court pointed out that the child, with his mother were proceeding on the sidewalk, that the child was lost to the mother. That "human life cannot be restored" and that a prison sentence would "have its effect on other reckless drivers."

No. 9 Next Tuesday.

The Object Of Medicine Today.

The great object of medicine today is more along the lines of prevention than of cure.

That doesn't mean that physicians are relaxing their efforts to bring relief from suffering and disease. It simply means that greater efforts are being put forth along the lines of preventing serious troubles from occurring or of making undue headway through a better understanding of how to live so as to avoid illness and disease.

And just as it is easier to dam a rivulet than a river so it is easier to correct any illness at its very beginning than after it has been permitted to become of serious proportions.

An illness in the family should urge you to call the physician as promptly as you would deal with a fire discovered in your home. This is the safest way under all circumstances.

Let us fill your prescriptions.

Ancient Indian Village Is Found In New Mexico

LAS CRUCES, New Mex.—An ancient Indian village was thought to have been unearthed near here by Arthur Cross, a farmer, while he was leveling a piece of land in preparation for spring planting.

Among the relics found by Cross was a perfect drill top and base with which it is thought turquoise beads were fashioned, a small stone bowl, fragments of pottery, and several perfectly round stones similar to those described by archeologists as being found in the excavations of old cities in Mexico. All these articles were buried in a layer of ashes several inches thick.

On the mesa west of Las Cruces, another old village was believed to have been discovered. Besides numerous relics similar to those described above, were found photographs on the lava walls of the canyon.

JERUSALEM.—A warning to tourists has just been issued by the American consul here, to beware of pickpockets even when visiting the Holy Places. The sanctity of the sites does not deter the light fingered from relieving unsuspecting worshippers of their valuables.

Two recent American victims were a woman tourist who missed a watch valued at $1,200 while at the Nativity church in Bethlehem, and a visitor to the Holy Sepulchre who had his wallet containing $300 in cash and important papers, "lifted."

Yanks' Winning Streak Snapped By Boston Sox

Hugmen Also Set Rivals Down After Seven Straight.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, May 22.—As the result of the defeat of the New York Yankees by the Boston Red Sox in the first game of a double-header yesterday, The other American league clubs perked up a bit today. The Yanks had taken twelve of their last thirteen starts, including eight successive victories, and their rivals were beginning to fear that the winning streak of the champions was due to go on forever—just like Tonyson's brook and the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures. After being felled by the Bostonese by an 8 to 4 count, the Yanks retaliated by nipping the Sox, 3 to 2, and snapping Boston's winning streak of seven straight. Meusel's home run ruined Charley Ruffing's four-hit game.

Home run hitters on all fronts found the range, delivering thirteen circuit smacks. Hack Wilson and Sunny Jim Bottomley got two apiece. Wilson now leads the National league home race with eight circuit clouts, one more than Del Bissonette's total. Bottomley has six.

Harper and Roetger of the Cardinals also hit homers, enabling the Red Birds to nose out the Cubs, 8 to 7. The St. Louis club has hit 24 homers, a better record than any big league outfit except the Yankees, who have 28, and the Athletics, who have 25.

The Reds shaded the Pirates, 4 to 3, but lost a chance to go to first place when they dropped a 6 to 3 decision to the Bucs in the nightcap.

The Athletics advanced to within 3½ games of the Yankees by taking two close ones from Washington, 4 to 3 and 2 to 1. Jack Quinn won his own game in the opener with a hit in the thirteenth inning. This victory was costly for the Mackmen, however, as Tris Speaker and Bing Miller suffered in going after a fly and collided injuries which will keep them out of the game for an indefinite period.

A homer by Dykes and French's double gave the A's the nightcap even though they made only one other hit off Hadley. The nats dropped into seventh place.

Other clubs were not scheduled.

Mandell Whips M'Larnin Decisively And Retains His Title

Challenger Powerless To Stop Champ's Jabs

Crown Wearer Finishes With Edge in Virtually Every Round; Foe Poorly Advised, According to Ringsiders.

By Davis J. Walsh.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, May 22.—The harp that once thru Tara's hall played lullaby music to willing and unwilling champions had a slightly sour twang this morning.

Jimmy McLarnin still wore the harp on his back as he stepped out of the ring last night after fifteen rounds with Sammy Mandell but that was only what he had planned to do, meanwhile taking a bow to left, right and centre while the multitude blatted in unison. What he hadn't expected to wear was the "mouse" upon his tightly closed left eye or the vin rouge upon his upturned Irish nose, for this wasn't part of the act at all.

Neither was the fact that he saw occasion to take no bows as he went. In truth, he took nothing all evening, unless one wishes to include Mandell's inevitable left to the countenance and his occasional though authoritative right to the lobby or foyer. As for taking the lightweight title away from Mandell, that prospect became an absurdity from the moment they exchanged their first grime—for the benefit of the cloak and suit men, 20,000 in round numbers when they started. They were also round at the finish, only this time they were round shouldered with remorse. As a fight, it wasn't such a much.

Used Wrong Tactics. It also would be achieving absurdity to state at this point, or any other, that Mandell still is the lightweight champion of the world. Everybody knew before the first round was over that, if McLarnin really was the outstanding challenger, Mandell would be champion until they started giving away clear coupons to the two nickles-for-a-dime telephone customers.

Of course, it is always popular and always safe to stand gallantly over the man who is down and kick him directly beneath the clavicle. I would like to avoid this onerous task but, after McLarnin's performance, I have no alternative but to deliver my kick with vindictive joy and go my way. McLarnin, probably couldn't have beaten Mandell with a horse whip last night but he didn't have to lose so far off that he failed to carry a single round of the fifteen. James was as game as the Irish in him demanded and he never stopped trying in the face of certain defeat. This was all very laudatory and commendable but it meant nothing. My objection is entered to the manner in which he tried.

Virtually ten rounds behind at the end of the tenth—I called the fifth and sixth even—McLarnin was so poorly advised as to keep winging away to the body, his apparent intention being to wear his man down. This would have been ideal tactics if they were fighting fifty rounds, instead of fifteen. As it was, McLarnin's only chance then was to fling right and left hands at the profile and never stop. Of course, it is none of my business that he never started but I nevertheless reserve the right not to like the performance.

Mandell at His Best. It might be pointed out that McLarnin couldn't reach Mandell's head and I will agree with this contention to the extent of saying that nobody can reach another man's head without trying.

However, the fact of the matter was that McLarnin apparently didn't know enough to beat Mandell the worst night the latter knew. And last night was one of his best. He slipped inside the right punch that leveled terror and absorbed it innocuously with shoulder and elbow. He whipped his left hand into Jimmy's face with-

RICKARD LOSES $25,000 ON BOUT

Chester's Rally Beats K. T. K. in Wierd Tilt

Trailing by Nine Runs, Riley's Club Scores Two in Second and Nine in Third to Sew up Contest.

If any baseball fan in the immediate vicinity holds the idea that this year's City Industrial league ball games are cut and dried—let him go out there to one of these ball parks and look on—and if he doesn't get plenty of thrills for his admittance fee, it will be cheerfully refunded. Frank Riley's Chester club, just about ready to pack up their bats and discharge the water boy for the night after the Katics had piled up a nine-run lead in the first two frames, scored 13 runs in four innings and won last night's tilt with the Potters at Smith Field. The count was 13 to 10.

The determination to step up to the plate and take a whack, if only at the air, even in the face of such odds as the Katics piled up last night in those opening frames, proved a factor in the Chester victory. And an equal determination on the part of the visitors kept the West Virginians in hot water during the last two or three cantos. Nobody was certain of winning that game until the last man was out.

Infield errors were responsible for the vast majority of the total of 23 runs. "Lefty" Baker, starting for Katics, had given the Chester aggregation five hits in two and two-thirds innings but atrocious support did him no good at all. Jack O'Brosky then was sent to the slab and finished the game.

Chester, Turk Nash On Road

Riley at Newell; Fowler Club at Wells-ville.

JOE DICKEY will trot out a new hurling "find" when the Homer Laughlin club tangles again with Frank Riley's second place Chester combine tonight at Newell. With Dickeyman still suffering from the effects of a sore arm and unable to hurl with his customary effectiveness, Dickey has been hard put for pitching timber. George Miles will be his nominee tonight, he announces, and he expects Miles to do his share towards checking the winning streak of the visitors. The Chester Laughlin tilt is one of two billed for tonight. Turk-Nash will collide with the Wellsville Nash Motors at Nicholson Field. This game originally was scheduled for Patterson field but was transferred to the Wellsville park as a result of the wretched condition of the west end lot.

It will be the first meeting of the Wellsville Turk-Nash clubs this year and one of the hardest fought contests of the campaign to date is anticipated. With the tacticians of both clubs working overtime doing out their battle plans.

Dickey, at Newell, promises Riley and his cohorts a warm reception. It is unusual for a Laughlin club to be consistently in the cellar and the West Virginians expect to do something about it immediately.

First Baseman Edwards of the Milwaukee club will be in the lineup against Turk-Nash tonight. At a meeting of magnates last night, managers agreed to play Edwards on probation for the time being.

Wilde's performance in setting the K. T. K. club down with six safe bingles was marred by erratic support from his infield. Both infields, including veterans who usually don't do such things, found difficulty in locating first base for the first couple of innings.

Although Myers was the only hitter for K. T. K. in the opening inning, the visitors chased three runners across the plate. A flock of misuses did the rest. Chester went out in order with the exception of Greene who smacked out a single but perished at second.

Six more runs counted by K. T. K. in the second looked just about good enough to win the game at that stage of proceedings. Ten K. T. K. batters took their "cuts" in this frame. Coleman and Herbert hit safely, three men walked, and two or three errors were registered to aid the cause.

Chester found the plate in the second half of the second. Vanaman led off with a double to left and Wilde made the initial station when his Texas leaguer slipped through Kinsey in left, both scoring.

The Chester support steadied in the third and checked the K. T. K. attack.

Trailing by seven runs, the Riley delegation went into the third to score nine runs and go into the lead. Five bingles rattled off the Chester bats in this frame. Eight of the nine runs were scored after two men had been retired.

T. O'Brosky and A. O'Brosky were nipped in the ribs by Wilde's fast ball in the fourth and the former counted on J. O'Brosky's single for K. T. K.'s tenth tally.

The West Virginians turned in two more runs in the fifth and the visitors went scoreless in their final batting chance in the sixth.

Coleman's work stood out for the Katics. The Potters' second sacker collected a pair of hits and a walk in four trips up, scored two runs, registered two putouts and a brace of assists.

Riley's battle plans were aided materially by the ability of his pinch hitters to come through. Walt McMahon batting for Parsons in the third, came through with a timely single and George Cebula, who took Melott's place in the lineup in the same inning, did the same thing. In addition, Cebula crashed out another bingle for a perfect batting average.

The Constant Flame

Narrative of Love and Struggle
Against Temptations

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Why should she care what others did—what years might bring? Always this to turn to. Kent was going away; going out of her life. He would come back and marry Marilee Grainger and she would see him no more. Well, no use feeling sorry. Life was like that—ship that pass.

He was beside her suddenly. Putting his arm along the back of the seat, smiling.

"Saw you coming out, Em. Mind company? This makes me think of Com—" He told her about Italian moonlight on the loveliest lake in the world. Matter of fact his words were, but he had the gift of vividness... she saw him drifting on a night like this between the blue of the water and the blue of the sky; drifting lazily, idly, while songs wafted from the shore.

"But you loved it Kent?"

He settled down on the bench—moved so his shoulder touched hers. "I loved new places. It kept me back in school though; that's why I've got to work hard the next couple of years. You know I was going away, Emmy?"

Going away—yes. He would go away just as tonight with its beauty would vanish. Gray dawn would come and gray days. She started to say, "I heard—" but the words wouldn't pass her lips.

"Planning to study law," he went on. "Think that'd be pretty nice, Em? Grand-dad was a judge, you know, it's in the blood."

"Oh, in the blood! Well—" He looked at her, laughing. "You don't believe in heredity? Many think it superstition. I suppose it isn't important one way or the other. We belong to ourselves, don't we?"

She sat there listening, a pale figure in her pale laces with the silver light on her pale head. Delicate as a moon-beam she looked, all misty shadow; a vague presence somehow aloof, exquisite as a prayer.

His hand went moving along the stone bench—gathered up her fingers in a warm, blithe pressure. He said, dreamily, "Didn't Bill Shakespeare write something about the floor of heaven inlaid with patines of bright gold? Never cared much for his stuff before. You kind of make a fellow think of things like that. ... Do you know you're the prettiest girl in Lyall?"

She turned toward him, feeling a sparkling quick wave of happiness. She tried to laugh, cover her embarrassment. But he had come close to her; he put his head down with his lips pressed together; there was no smile in his eyes.

Prettiest and sweetest, Emily. I wish—well—" She wanted to hear what he wished. This boy so fine, so lovable sitting here beside her. That he wasn't going away, perhaps? If he could tell her that! She moved her fingers in his hand, felt herself caught in a passion of waiting.

But he leaned back, still watching her, and began to sing their class-day song: "Oh moon of my delight that knows no wane, The moon of heaven is rising once again—"

Vibrant and soft his voice was; very tender, touched with longing. His farewell to her, she thought it; to their school-days together. Tears kept running into her eyes yet it seemed her heart was a chalice held out to fill with sweetness.

The song ended in a mystery of regret and she got up suddenly, wishing to go now while this was so vividly hers.

They walked to the edge of the cliff and stood looking out on the broad river. The night boat was going up to Albany; it seemed a fairy thing, all slender whiteness with its rows of lighted windows.

Suddenly the yellow squares were obscured for a moment as a yacht came swinging down the river very faintly, moving fast. As the two came abreast a deep-throated call went out from the ship; it was answered by a quick, merry blast like a shout of laughter from the yacht. They drew apart rapidly and went on, losing themselves in the dark.

Emily whispered, "Ships that pass—" "But they'll meet again. The world's pretty narrow after all; and these travel the same waters. Emily—" He held her arms then exactly as he had done that day when they were children and he called her into the "post office."

"You're going now? This is good-bye? Beautiful Emmy—" She raised her face then and he kissed her.

When school was out Frances Hadden offered Emily a job.

"Not so much of a place, my dear, but you'd be learning. You still wish to teach Latin? A dry job, that. But a bit of interior-decorating comes in handy if you're doing no more than hanging dining-room curtains. And you like it here."

"Of course, dear Frances. I love it. Well, ask mother."

But Agnes felt she couldn't let Emily go. Steve was no better; he had, in fact, moved from the couch to his bed in the little south room upstairs and now, in addition to her housework Agnes had to be nurse.

Kitten was little help. She would undertake chores willingly enough but long before they were finished she would be out and away, sitting with Dottie Brent under the hedge where once Emily and Stella dreamed of romance. Or she would begin something and slyly draw her sister into it, leaving it to her to finish.

In the meantime Agnes was growing meeker and more gray and the veins in her hands more than ever like knotted ropes. And much as she needed the small wage Emily would be able to bring home, she needed her help more.

So throughout the summer Emily was a combination housemaid and nurse. The storms always gathering around Kitten were wearing. But Steve had dropped his bitterness and was strangely tractable. She spent many hours by his bedside, reading aloud to him or talking hopefully about the day when he should be well again and go back to Rossiter's.

But that day never came.

CHAPTER 9.

In the last week of August Steven Day died.

A dewy green morning it was, aflame with the fulness of summer, yet holding a vague wisfulness, hint of coming fall. Always afterward that wisfulness meant to Emily a thing that could smile with blind eyes.

Almost overnight a rainbow had laid itself across the back yard. These were the dahlias Steve planted every year and tended with a fervor of pride. They were the one beautiful thing in which he felt an interest. This year Emily had done it all for him under his direction.

His window looked out on that corner of the garden and he would move with his pillows almost on the sill, calling down to her as she put the bulbs in the ground and later as she loosened the soil about the little plants.

He watched the leaves unfold, always looking ahead to the time when he should go out and work among them. But the buds came finally and he could no longer move to lie with his head on the window-sill.

"Tomorrow, maybe," he would say. "Well, tell me, Emmy, are them double ping ones doin' good? Took a sight of pains with 'em last year."

"And the yella ones with the brown spots—them comin' out? Sorta hard, not seem' 'em."

She would answer, "Yes, father; all doing fine. Why, every bud has turned this way. Just as if they were lonesome-like. Supposing I bring you in one or two? They'd come out in water."

But he wouldn't have the buds broken off.

And the green morning came when she told him they were all in blossom. "Red and gold and pink—oh, it's just as if an angel had been painting the garden, dear. Never so lovely. And all waiting for you—"

He was like a child on Christmas eve. "I want to see them, Emmy. Some ways I ain't feelin' so good lately; help me do this; you'll help your ol' father, Emmy?"

Tears kept running down her cheeks and splashing her hands. But she called Agnes and together they moved him very gently and slipped the pillows under his head. He gazed a long time upon the blended colors mellowed by the morning sun and it seemed to the two who watched that the glow was reflected in his face.

Finds Mother Right

Gladys Valentine of Brooklyn, N.Y., facing a charge of receiving stolen goods, given her by her husband, told the court that she has come to believe that her mother had the right dope. "I didn't agree with mother at first, but now I see where she was right," she tearfully admitted.

First Law School In United States Will be Preserved

LITCHFIELD, Conn. — Lawyers of Connecticut intend to replace in the door yard of the ancient Tapping Reeve homestead a little wooden building that housed the first law school on the western continent, and so preserve in its original site the shrine to which attorneys from many states have travelled in days past. Judge Tapping Reeve founded the law school here in 1784 and his successors kept it running until 1883. The original law school was an adjunct to Yale though far removed from the home of Old Eli, but the building today is owned by the local historical society, while Yale university owns the Tapping Reeve home. Restoration of the law school building, a slight wooden structure, to its old site will conform to the plan of making Litchfield as a whole a memorial to Colonial days.

Vienna Radio Fans Favor Music Over Sermons, Politics

VIENNA. — Sermons and political speeches were rejected by an overwhelming majority of the Vienna radio listeners as a result of a questionnaire of the largest Vienna radio magazine, the Radio World, regarding the subjects on the Austrian radio programs. But the same voters, who objected to being reformed, have also turned down the "prodigal" features of radio broadcasting, that is horse-racing and stock exchange information. Concerts ranked first in order of popularity, while operas following close after.

"FOOLS FOR LUCK" OPENS AT CERAMIC

Based on the adventures of a slick promoter who comes to a small town with a get rich quick scheme. Paramount's W. C. Fields-Chester Conklin team picture "Fools for Luck," which opened last night at the Ceramic theatre, is an outstanding example of the new type of motion picture comedy. In other words it is a comedy which derives its humor from funny situations worked in logical fashion through an interesting story rather than from a disconnected series of artifices designed solely to get laughs.

The picture tells a straight away story of the tightly promoted landings in the small town with empty pockets but a grip full of oil stock. His activities involve the leading citizen of the town and have an important bearing upon the love affair of that citizen's beautiful daughter.

The locale is the average small town in the United States and it is noteworthy that this comedy achieves humor through local characterizations without the slightest tinge of distortion.

W. C. Fields has the role of the smooth tongued promoter who makes ordinarily intelligent people pay out good money for prettily engraved paper and smile about doing it. Chester Conklin is the substantial citizen who has a beautiful daughter, and unerring accuracy with a pool cue, and a wife with social ambitions.

Earl Haig, aged 10, has, at his request, been a Wolf Cub in the 20th Richmond Boy Scouts' Troop, which is also known as Earl Haig's Own, it being the last public act of the late Earl Haig to present his colors to this troop.

Among the settlers who arrived in the Union of South Africa under auspices of the 1920 Memorial Settlers' association were five unmarried women, one of whom is to be a doctor and three others are to raise fruit and poultry.

John Edward Taylor, of Green Street, Green, said to be the oldest man in Kent, England, celebrated his one-hundred-fourth birthday recently by working in his garden.

FLYING BOAT TO CARRY 100 OVER ATLANTIC

Herr Dornier, German
Designer, Builds
Craft.

CREW OF 10 MEN

Plans Journey to South
America in Four Days.

LONDON.—The greatest flying boat in the world, capable of accommodating 120 persons, is now being built in the works of Herr Dornier, the famous German designer of aircraft.

Herr Dornier is visiting London giving lectures in connection with his mammoth plane.

"The fact is that air traffic today has not yet become serious," Herr Dornier told International News Service. "It is interesting, but it must be developed on the big scale if it is to compete properly with steamships and trains. My latest type is an attempt to recognize this."

The crew will consist of nine or ten, headed by a commander, whose position will approximate that occupied by the captain of a liner of the seas. There will be a pilot and a navigator, and the engine will be centrally controlled by a chief engineer with several mechanics.

"The pilot will have an indicator to show him how many engines are running and what horsepower is available, but on the chief engineer will devolve the duty of seeing to the maintenance of the correct number of revolutions, the temperatures, etc. His job will be to keep the engines going satisfactorily. My plane will have twelve motors, so that engine failure will be almost an impossibility."

"I do not agree that such an enor-

Try This Simple Method For Blackheads

If you are troubled with these unsightly blemishes, get two ounces of Calomite powder from any drug store. Sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth and rub over the blackheads. In a few minutes every blackhead, big or little, will be dissolved away entirely.

mous structure will be too unwieldy to be safe. With its great power there should be no trouble in taking off or landing in the comfort of a harbor. With a big machine of this kind it is easy to make the hull very strong indeed, and this strength will be of importance in resisting the great shocks encountered against the waves.

To South America.
"As to the purpose of the machine I am now building on these lines, I would say that the probability of their being used on journeys across the South Atlantic to South America is greater than across the North Atlantic, because the weather conditions on the former are better. As a service of this kind is necessarily experimental, the objective at the start would be to secure safety and efficiency by carrying mails and goods."

"But very quickly it should be possible to advance from that point to greater machines that will fly over the North Atlantic. The flying range of the machines now under construction will be about 2,200 miles, and the journey to South America should occupy about four days with intermediate stops before taking the hop across the South Atlantic."

77 GUERNSEYS BRING $108,510

Average Price of $1,410
Netted at Hinsdale,
Ill., Sale.

Seventy-seven Guernsey cattle sold May 17 for $108,510 at Hinsdale, Ill., following the annual meeting of the American Guernsey Cattle Club. The average price of $1,410 is a fair indication of the popularity of the breed and the demand for breeding stock of superlative value.

Eleven cows and five bulls were consigned by Ohio breeders. The 11 cows fetched $11,175 and the five bulls $21,775, making the average of Ohio animals $2,977.

Shuttleworth Champion, a four-year-old bull consigned by Myron A. Wick of Chagrin Falls, O., topped the sale at $15,500. A daughter of his brought $1,925 and two other female consignments by Mr. Wick sold for $1,700 each. A beautiful young cow entered by Mrs. G. L. C. Tucker, Willoughby, sold for $1,000.

The top price cow of the sale was Imperial Country Flower of Langwater which has an enviable show record. She was consigned by William Larsen Canning Co. of Green Bay, Wis., and purchased by L. S. Kaufmann of Marquette, Mich., at $8,100. The same buyer purchased a daughter of Country Flower for $2,800.

The interest of Guernsey cattle folk of Ohio will next center in a state consignment sale to be held at Wooster on June 6 when 55 carefully selected animals will be sold.
